As an international speaker, public speaking coach, and award-winning author, Peter helps executive directors, financial advisors, students, and others master the art of public speaking so they can increase their impact, influence, and income.

Throughout his childhood, Peter struggled with a lisp and stuttering. Consequently, he grew up shy and introverted, avoiding communicating with others as much as possible.

When he entered the business world, however, Peter quickly realized that his lack of public speaking skills kept him at a disadvantage. So, he turned to public speaking coaches for help and now credits them for much of his business success.

Peter has spoken and trained at conferences and other events in more than 50 countries, sharing his expertise on how to use public speaking to achieve greater success.

Peter’s book, The Captivating Public Speaker: How to Engage, Impact, and Inspire Your Audience Every Time, has earned six awards, including the 2023 International Business Book of the Year runner-up.
